SUGAR SUPPLY IS VERY SHORT

No Relief in Sight Till the New Crop Gets in, Says Washington. Food Administration Urges the Washington, Oct. 16.—The Eastern States face a sugar shortage, with no prospect of relief before November, when the new Hawaiian and Western beet crops are arriving. In the meantime, the food administration again appeals to American people to cut down their consumption of candy and sweet drips, and at the same time gave warning that retailers already have received their stocks at prices recently agreed upon and the public must pay no more during the temporary scarcity in the East than has been paying during the past thirty days.

The shortage is due the administration, says to the failure of the public outside of a few loyal homes to reduce consumption, and to the

"There will be a temporary shortage in the supply of sugar to the north of Savannah and east of there," the food administration statement said, "during the latter part of October and the month of November, pending the arrival in the market of new sugar. The best sugar factories in the Western States are rapidly coming into action, and, together with the Hawaiian production, will be able to

"As the production of beet and sweeten sugar increases, the areas supplied from this source will gradually extend eastward and beet sugar could reach the Atlantic seaboard the end of November.

"Practically all of the cane sugar the hands of the refiners and the slucers has now been distributed the jobbers and retailers at the prices maintained during the last six months or upon a basis that would reach the consumer in the neighborhood of 9 cents the pound. Therefore, if by virtue of the shortage in the Eastern States, the price that should increase, it is only of that it has been increased at the hands of the handling traders—at the hands of either the producer or the consumer. The food administration asks the question: "Why should we pay for sugar during the present shortage, than it has been paying during the last thirty days?" The remedial contribution can be made if the American people will be able to reduce their consumption of beer and sweet drinks. Many housewives and many of the voluntary responders to the appeal for voluntary rationing, and, unless we can secure a further and immediate reduction of sugar consumption in candy, ice cream and sweet drinks, it will be necessary next year to curtail the supply to these industries, as has been done all over Europe."

R OFFICE IS SPEEDING UP ON TRUCK DELIVERIES.

Washington, Oct. 16—The War Department moved today to speed the assembling and delivery of standardized motor trucks which have been decided upon for army transportation.
Instead of having the trucks shipped by freight it has been decided to then assembled at; central them and to go under their power to mobilization centers, at same time carrying heavy loads other war supplies. By this it is designed to relieve the congestion on the railroads

at the same time save freight,
the men operating them to be time familiar with the new style truck and speed up the transpor-
n of army food and other supplies.

Within the last week, it became known today, contracts have been made for more than 100 firms for the standardized trucks.
The contracts so far awarded are for 15,000 trucks, delivery start on January 1 at the rate of a month.

MUCH INTEREST IN COUNTY FAIR

(By The Chamber of Commerce)

With the interest growing daily there is every indication that the 1917 Chester County Fair will be a record breaker in exhibits and attendance.

The interest in this year's fair is not confined to Chester County but is spreading throughout the surrounding counties, and thousands of visitors will be present on the four days from the 17th to the 20th of October. The fair will be held on the grounds of the fair on the last day of the month.

Work on the new exhibit building is being pushed and it is hoped to have the building ready by the first of the month so that the exhibit will be given for the preparation necessary for the arrangement of the exhibits of the different departments that will be housed in this building. New cattle barn will also be erected for the protection of the cattle to be shown and this exhibit will surpass by far any cattle exhibit in this section while, among the exhibits, a complete canvas of the merchants of the city has not yet been made. It is likely that the exhibit will be the largest and better than last year.

$160,000,000 A DAY WAR COST, ACCORDING TO N. Y. BANK

Mechanics and Metals Also Shows Immense Superiority of Allies in Resources.

WAR is now costing the nation of the world $160,000,000 an hour and $160,000,000 a day, according to estimates prepared in a booklet to be issued by the Mechanics and Metals National Bank of New York. The United States is doing a present expense running to fully a fourth of the total amount, or $40,000,000,000. This is a rate of expenditure greater than that of any other nation involved. Great Britain's total cost is less than a year ago it was calculated by the bank making these estimates that the world's total daily war cost was $100,000,000; at the beginning of the war in August, 1914, the cost was placed at $50,000,000.

The total war cost to the world, the booklet declares, will be $150,000,000,000 by next August, if peace efforts in the meantime are successful. Already the aggregate expenditures of the various nations have reached $100,000,000,000, of which all but a fraction has been expended into permanent national indebtedness. Interest on public debt is now reckoned to be more than 10 per cent of the normal income of the German people, as compared with less than one-half of 1 per cent in the case of the people of the United States.

Altogether, 53,000,000 men are today actively engaged in the war. To what extent the Entente Allies have gained superiority over Germany is shown by the bank in striking fashion. With no more than 2,000,000 of American military equipment, the total military strength of the Allies is 33,000,000 against 10,000,000 for Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey, 20,000,000. The population of fourteen Entente Allies from which the ranks of their armies may be replenished, is also over 1,000,000,000 against a population of less than 100,000,000 of the Central European nations. The developed national wealth of the Allies is placed at $600,000,000,000 by the bank, while that of the Teutonic Powers is given as $150,000,000,000.

AN ENCOURAGEMENT TO SAVE.

In encouraging the people of America, it is believed that the Liberty Loan Bonds are going to perform an important function in the national life. The small denomination of some of the bonds renders it possible for the ordinary wage earner to purchase one with the savings of a few months, and the banks of the country have undertaken to provide for the purchase of these bonds in small weekly or monthly payments.

By devoting each week or each month to the purchase of Liberty Loan Bonds, the ordinary wage earner may acquire property that will be useful for the very best securities in the history of the world, but can at the same time feel that a patriotic duty has been performed and a habit of saving acquired.

The ultimate result of this war will be a victory for America, but what the American and American people will acquire property that will be useful for the very best securities in the history of the world, but can at the same time feel that a patriotic duty has been performed and a habit of saving acquired.

There are other possibilities--they might better be called probabilities--and one of these is the Liberty Loan Bonds, when peace comes and money now in active industrial use will be seeking quiet investment, may bring a premium.

GERMAN SOCIALIST PLEADS FOR PEACE

Ending of War Vital to the Workmen of All Nations, Declares Party Leader.

"Amsterdam, Oct. 16.--In his speech at the Wurzburg convention here, Ernst, president of the German Socialist party, said openly and clearly that a vital necessity for workmen in all countries and that the policy of the mailed fist would shatter after the frightful horrors of the war.

"If a ballot were taken today," he added, "nine-tenths of the people would approve peace by agreement." Herr Scheidermann, referring to the "Cape incident," said unfortunately it could not be discussed in public.

"The fact is," he continued, "that if they wanted to catch all who were connected with some incidents they would have to take action against every German simultaneously. Every day soldiers come to us with complaints and we have opened a special main thing is not to talk or write about grievances but to combat them."

Hardly as Bad as It Seems.

That a hospital building suitable for the troops should have been put up at considerable expense for the use of the soldiers is being pointed out perfectly. It was, presumably, a military medicine is not yet working. It was, presumably, a military medicine is not yet working. It was, presumably, a military medicine is not yet working.

however, can be made and for that master is made, of inevitable mistakes like these, for inevitable, they are in a country like this. But they are neither fatal nor irreparable, and they are far from justifying pessimistic prophecies of "dreadful things to come as the war goes on."

Large hostilities move slowly, particularly when they are democratic, and the performance of a hospital building is a well-remembered task. And though a hospital building is a well-remembered task, it is not a well-remembered task. And though a hospital building is a well-remembered task, it is not a well-remembered task.

The country is at war and it is now judged by circumstances that the government is doing what it can to do many things in a very real way. That they will not all be well done at first is to be expected, but the blame for the occasional ill-doing is widely distributed and fairly divided. Not one of us can escape a share of it and the responsibility for all that is done or not done cannot all be put on this or that official. In a final analysis, the responsibility is shared by all of us.

Mr. Marion Holcomb, of Nancy, Ky., says: "For quite a long while I suffered with stomach trouble. I would have pains and a heavy feeling after my meals, a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. If I ate anything with butter, oil or grease, I would get it up. I began to have regular sick headaches. I had used pills and rubrics, but after a course of these, I would be constipated.
